

FIRST NOTICE OF LOSS (FNOL) INTAKE GUIDELINES

RoadGuard Auto Insurance | Claims Department | 2025 Edition

This guide covers the required information, processes, and timelines for filing a First Notice of Loss (FNOL) with RoadGuard Auto Insurance. FNOL is the official initiation of a claim. All claims must have an FNOL before any investigation, repair authorization, or payment can occur.

PART 1: WHEN TO FILE AN FNOL

1.1 Reportable Events

An FNOL must be filed for any of the following events involving your covered vehicle: - Any collision with another vehicle, object, or surface resulting in visible damage - Theft or attempted theft of your vehicle or its parts - Vandalism or malicious damage - Weather-related damage (hail, flood, wind, lightning, falling tree) - Fire or explosion - Animal contact damage (deer strike, bird impact) - Hit-and-run incidents (even if damage appears minor) - Glass-only damage (windshield, windows) - Any incident where another party may make a claim against you

1.2 Filing Deadlines

STANDARD CLAIMS: File FNOL within 24 hours of discovering the loss for the best claims outcome. The policy requires prompt reporting; failure to report within a reasonable time may affect your claim.

HIT-AND-RUN / UNINSURED MOTORIST: Must be filed within 72 hours. A police report must be filed within 24 hours of the incident.

THEFT: Police report required within 24 hours of discovery. FNOL must be filed immediately after police report is filed.

GLASS-ONLY: No strict deadline, but coverage ends at policy expiration. File as soon as practical.
