

UNINSURED & UNDERINSURED MOTORIST COVERAGE GUIDE

RoadGuard Auto Insurance | Policy Year 2025

PART 1: UNDERSTANDING UM/UIM COVERAGE

What is Uninsured Motorist (UM) Coverage?

Uninsured Motorist (UM) coverage protects you and your passengers when you are injured in an accident caused by a driver who has no insurance, whose insurance company denies the claim, or whose insurer is insolvent. UM also covers hit-and-run accidents in most circumstances.

WITHOUT UM COVERAGE: If an uninsured driver injures you, your only recourse is to sue the driver personally — an often costly and futile process if they have no assets.

WITH UM COVERAGE: RoadGuard steps in as if it were the at-fault driver's insurer and compensates you for your injuries, lost wages, pain and suffering, and other covered damages up to your UM limit.

What is Underinsured Motorist (UIM) Coverage?

Underinsured Motorist (UIM) coverage bridges the gap when the at-fault driver's liability limits are too low to fully compensate you for your injuries and damages.

EXAMPLE: You suffer $120,000 in injuries. The at-fault driver has a $30,000 liability policy. Their insurer pays $30,000. RoadGuard's UIM coverage pays up to $90,000 more (your $100,000 UIM limit minus the $30,000 already recovered from the at-fault driver), for a total of $120,000 to cover all your damages.

PART 2: UM/UIM LIMITS BY PLAN TIER

Coverage Limit Structure

UM/UIM limits are expressed in the same per-person / per-occurrence format as liability coverage:

Standard Shield: $50,000 / $100,000 Premium Guard: $100,000 / $300,000 Comprehensive Elite: $250,000 / $500,000

MEANING: The first number is the maximum paid per injured person. The second number is the maximum paid for all injuries in a single accident. You can purchase higher UM/UIM limits (up to your liability limits) by endorsement for an additional premium.

UM/UIM Stacking

STACKING allows you to combine UM/UIM limits across multiple vehicles on your policy. Illinois permits stacking unless the policy contains an anti-stacking endorsement.

EXAMPLE (Stacking): You have 2 vehicles on your policy, each with $100,000/$300,000 UM coverage. Stacked coverage = $200,000/$600,000 per accident.

RoadGuard's standard policies DO NOT contain an anti-stacking endorsement. If you wish to add an anti-stacking endorsement (which reduces coverage but also reduces premium), contact your agent.

PART 3: WHAT UM/UIM COVERS

Covered Damages

UM/UIM covers the following damages when caused by an uninsured or underinsured motorist: - Medical expenses (past and future): Hospital, surgery, rehabilitation, physical therapy, medication, medical equipment - Lost wages: Earnings lost due to inability to work caused by injuries - Loss of earning capacity: If injuries result in permanent disability affecting future earning ability - Pain and suffering: Physical and emotional distress caused by the accident - Disfigurement or permanent disability - Wrongful death damages (for surviving family members) - Funeral expenses (up to UM limit)

What UM/UIM Does NOT Cover

UM/UIM coverage does NOT pay for: - Damage to your vehicle (covered under collision or UMPD) - Punitive damages - Property in your vehicle (covered under homeowners/renters) - Injuries sustained while committing a crime - Injuries

while using the vehicle as a livery/rideshare without endorsement - Claims arising from nuclear events or acts of war

PART 4: FILING A UM/UIM CLAIM

Filing Process

Step 1: File an FNOL with RoadGuard within 72 hours of a hit-and-run or uninsured motorist accident.

Step 2: File a police report within 24 hours (required for hit-and-run claims; strongly recommended for all UM claims).

Step 3: Seek medical treatment promptly. Document all injuries with medical providers. Keep all medical records and bills.

Step 4: Your adjuster will request a recorded statement. Cooperate fully.

Step 5: For UIM claims, you must exhaust the at-fault driver's liability policy before UIM applies. Notify RoadGuard before settling with the at-fault driver's insurer (consent required).

Step 6: If UM/UIM liability or value is disputed, the claim proceeds to arbitration (see Section 5 of the full policy document).
